Proposed Use

Explain what you want to do with the property. (Do you want to build a building, subdivide a lot, have a business, ...).

Explain why you need the Zoning Board to let you do it. (The building will be too close to the lot line; the Planning Board wouldn't approve your subdivision; your lot is in a zoning district where businesses aren't allowed; ...).

Be specific. Identify the section or sections of the Zoning Ordinance that apply. If lot sizes or configurations or building placements are relevant, provide a scale drawing or plan showing all relevant information, such as lot lines, setbacks, present and proposed structures on your lot and neighboring lots, etc.

Application for a Variance, Page 1 of 3

When, because of the specific characteristics of your property, the Zoning Ordinance unreasonably restricts your use of your property without a corresponding public benefit, the Zoning Board may grant a Variance, which modifies or sets aside particular requirements of the Ordinance.

The specific section of the Zoning Ordinance to be varied: 6.2.5.

The requirement in that section that you want to change, and how you want it changed:

No disposal field shall be located within the setbacks.
Allow the proposed disposal field to be within the setback.

To grant a variance, the Zoning Board must decide that it will satisfy each of the following five conditions. Please explain why you believe that each of the following statements is true. (Use additional sheets of paper if necessary.)

1. The proposed use will not diminish surrounding property values: The proposed use would benefit the surrounding property values by removing the possibility of contamination of the surrounding property from the existing field
2. Granting the variance would not be contrary to the public interest: Granting the proposed system would be in the interest of the public by eliminating the possibility of contaminating the environment and the surrounding abutters
3. "Hardship" is the unique situation of your property which justifies the variance. Complete just one of the following three hardship sections:
 - a. If the variance involves a relaxation of dimensional requirements, made necessary by the physical characteristics of the lot, to enable a use which would otherwise be permitted on the property, then complete section 3(a), "Hardship for an Area Variance." (If you are submitting an application for an area variance, you should also read Sections 17.2 and 17.3 of the Zoning Ordinance.)
 - b. If the variance involves a use which is not permitted on the lot, then complete section 3(b), "Hardship for a Use Variance."
 - c. If the variance is necessary to make reasonable accommodations to allow a person with a recognized physical disability to reside in or regularly use the premises, then complete section 3(c), "Hardship resulting from a physical disability."

3(a). Hardship for an Area Variance.

i. The variance is necessary to enable the proposed use of the property given the special conditions of the property:

Due to the given dimensions of the property, the variance is necessary to provide adequate living conditions for the owners of the property. The lot ~~size~~^{is such} a size the septic must be in the setback.

ii. The benefit sought by the applicant cannot be achieved by some other method reasonably feasible for the applicant to pursue, other than an area variance:

The property dimensions restrict the possibility of a working septic under the current zoning ordinance.

3(b). Hardship for a Use Variance.

i. The zoning restriction as applied interferes with the applicant's reasonable use of the property, considering the unique setting of the property in its environment:

ii. No fair and substantial relationship exists between the general purposes of the zoning ordinance and the specific restriction on the property:

iii. The variance would not injure the public or private rights of others:

3(c). Hardship resulting from a physical disability.

i. The variance is necessary to make reasonable accommodations to allow a person with a recognized physical disability to reside in or regularly use the premises:

1. The proposed use would benefit the surrounding property values by removing the possibility of contamination of the surrounding property from the existing failed drywell system.
2. Granting the proposed system would be in the interest of the public by eliminating the possibility of contaminating the environment and surrounding abutters.
- 3ⁱ(a). Due to the given dimensions of the property, the variance is necessary to provide adequate living conditions for the owners of the property. The lot is such a size the septic has to be within the building setback.
- 3ⁱⁱ(b). The property dimensions restrict the possibility of a working septic under the current zoning ordinance.
4. Granting the variance would do substantial justice by allowing the property to be occupied with a working septic system.
5. Granting the variance would be consistent with the spirit of the Ordinance by creating a better living environment for the owners of the property the surrounding abutters.
